General Comment

Please do NOT keep me from selling options in my IRA!! Selling options is a way for us to add additional income from stocks Selling options entails much lower risk than buying options. There are those of us including retirees, that just want to take advantage of their IRAs to SELL calls and puts for income and cannot afford to speculate buy BUYING puts and calls.

If speculators want to be Hi Risk and buy options in their IRA account, I believe you should let them take tax advantage, whether they win or lose, learn a lesson or not learn.

Don't penalize those of us (especially retirees) who know how to use options in a low risk way from selling options in their retirement accounts! Please.
